Sunset and evening star,
 And one clear call for me!
 And may there be no
                                 moaning at the bar
 When I put out to sea.
 But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
 Too full for sound and foam,
 When that which drew from out of the boundless deep Turns again home.
